

WU TING FANG EXPLAINS WHY CHINA IS REPUBLIC

Law of Evolution, Very Actively at Work, Will Be for Ultimate Good of Nation.

WRITES BOOK ABOUT AMERICA

Former Minister to This Country, Who Expects to Live to Be 150 Years Old, Out of Public Life and for Next 75 Years Only Onlooker.

SHANGHAI, October 23.—Dr. Wu Ting-fang, the former Chinese minister to the United States, although he plans to live to be 150 years old, now considers himself out of public life, and for the next seventy-five years will be just an onlooker, regardless whether the Chinese republic is turned back into an empire.

"The folks up at Peking are running things. They haven't asked my advice, and they probably wouldn't act on it if I gave it," said Dr. Wu, when asked for his comments on the monarchical movement.

"In my recent book on America I told what I thought about the American government, the Chinese government and governments in general. I couldn't say any more than I said in that book, and I haven't changed my mind since I wrote it," the venerable diplomat continued.

Dr. Wu's book, called "America Through the Spectacles of an Oriental Diplomat," contains a chapter reviewing monarchical and republican forms of government in detail. He says: "It may be pertinently asked why China has become a republic, since from time immemorial she has had a monarchical form of government. The answer is that the conditions and circumstances in China are peculiar and are different from those prevailing in Japan and other countries. In Japan it is claimed that the empire was founded by the first Emperor, Jimmu Tenno, 550 B. C., and that the dynasty founded by him has continued ever since. It is well known that the Chinese imperial family is of Manchu origin. The Ching dynasty was founded in 1644 by conquest, not by succession. Then the recent overthrow of the Manchu dynasty it was found very difficult to find a Chinese, however popular and able, who possessed the legal right of succeeding to the throne. Jealousy and provincial feelings placed this suggestion absolutely beyond discussion. Disagreements, frictions and constant civil wars would have ensued if any attempt had been made to establish a Chinese dynasty. Another fact is that a large majority of the intelligent people of China were disgusted with the system of monarchical government. Thus it will be seen that, for the sake of the peace and welfare of the nation, there was no other course for the people but to take a long jump and to establish the recent republic. The law of evolution has been very actively at work in China, and no doubt it will be for her ultimate good, and therefore for the benefit of all mankind. China is now an infant republic, but she will grow into a healthy and strong youth."

DR. WU LIVES IN MODERN HOUSE BUILT OF GRANITE

The home of Dr. Wu is a modern granite house, located in a large walled garden, rich in palms and luxuriant tropical flowers. At the lodge gate a tall Sikh, wearing a red turban, greets visitors and bids the drivers to proceed along the gravelled road leading to the porte-cochere barked with the potted plants of various colors. The entrance leads into a wide hall. At one side of this is Dr. Wu's study; at the other a large drawing-room, furnished in beautiful blackwood pieces of Chinese designs, and with white walls relieved by silk banners bearing quotations from the Chinese classics. In the center of the room is a great, round table of blackwood with mottled marble top. Dr. Wu and the Associated Press correspondent sat at this, drinking tea, while the statesman discussed his future plans.

"I shall devote the rest of my life to literary work. I have just finished some books in Chinese on educational subjects. I am much interested in a better system of schools for my country."

"You still cling to your vegetarian principles?"

"Oh, yes. I have found the secret of health. No liquor nor tobacco for me."

and no meat. One learns how to live sanely on advances in years."

"And you plan to make Shanghai your permanent home?"

"Oh, yes, at least for the present. I am happier here than anywhere else. After my long years abroad, I returned to Peking still with enthusiasm and new ideas, which I desire to see put into effect in China. But I found the atmosphere of Peking too conservative. The officials there lived too much out of the world currents, and were too unwilling to consider new ideas. I chose Shanghai as my present home because it is so cosmopolitan. There are people here from all over the world and from all over China. It is a busy, commercial center, a clearing-house for modern thought. I find inspiration here, and am happy in watching China work out a government under which she will be able to develop her limitless resources."

BAN ON LIQUOR AT YALE

Faculty Gives Notice That None Will Be Allowed After November 1 in Club or Frat Houses.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] NEW HAVEN, CONN., October 23.—Notice has been sent out by the Yale faculty to all club, secret societies and frat organizations to which Yale undergraduates belong informing them that after November 1 they will not be allowed to serve liquor in their club, society or frat houses. The faculty order is expected to put an end to the drinking of undergraduates, which has been at times excessive. Action is taken in connection with a new State law which provides that all clubs or similar organizations, which wish to serve liquor must secure a special kind of license. The Yale authorities do not desire undergraduate clubs to request licenses allowing liquor to be dispensed.

COTTON HELD IN ITALY

NEW YORK, October 23.—American cotton valued at approximately $50,000,000, consigned to Germany is in possession of the Italian government, according to Captain J. W. Batchelor, of the Liverpool Salvage Association, who arrived here yesterday on the steamship Baltic from Liverpool. Captain Batchelor said he but recently came from Italy, where he was engaged in looking after this cotton. For several months, he said, previous to Italy joining the allies all cotton consigned to Germany through Italy was detained. One of the last pretenses used was there was a shortage of cars, and to overcome this Germany sent to Italy a large consignment of rolling stock. Italy is in possession of both cars and cotton.

Officers and passengers of the Baltic reported an uneventful voyage.

WORKING OUT PROBLEM OF CARING FOR MAIMED

French Government Seeks to Make Them Self-Supporting, Notwithstanding Their Infirmities.

SOLDIERS LEARN NEW TRADES

Several Institutions in Operation Where Functional Reeducation or Professional Re-Education or Physical Training Are Carried On.

SAINT-MAURICE, FRANCE, October 23.—The problem of caring for the army of maimed and disabled soldiers is being gradually worked out. The aim of the government is to make them self-supporting, notwithstanding their infirmities. To do this the first necessity is functional reeducation or professional re-education or physical training. A million francs ($200,000) is being spent on this work. Here, not far from Paris, in the National Convalescent Asylum and Military Hospital are quartered at present 325 men, about 125 of whom are cured and are learning new trades or professions in the various schools of the institutions. Other similar establishments will be put into operation at Bordeaux, Bayonne, Bourges, Montpellier, Rouen, Lyons, Toulouse, Caen, Limoges, Nancy, no less complete than that provided for here, Saint-Etienne, Brest and Orlans.

(Algeria.)

The Saint-Maurice institution, created by Napoleon III, and located in a large, well-kept park, is admirably adapted to this work. Its halls are large and well-ventilated and equipped with modern apparatus. Victims of paralysis, ankylosis, those whose tendons have been cut out and others suffering from various lesions may be seen working special machines, most of them made in the United States, to exercise stiff joints and bring back life to deadened muscles. In many cases, after patient application to the treatment, the member functions normally. There is an appliance for almost every conceivable complication resulting from a wound. Most of the patients are able to use them without aid after having been shown; then it is simply a case of sticking to it. The adjoining room is filled with the whirr of electric massage instruments manipulated by nurses.

On a concrete walk in the garden large footstools have been painted. These are a cure for locomotion disorders, for soldiers who lost control of their legs through nerve shock or otherwise, and who have to begin over again like a child. An outdoor gymnasium furnishes more severe forms of exercise for those who need it and can stand it.

After the functional cure, the patients are treated from the standpoint of "professional re-education," retraining them for remunerative occupations. This phase of the work at Saint-Maurice is no less complete than that provided for here, Saint-Etienne, Brest and Orlans.

functions. Several halls are devoted to particular trades and professions, and in six buildings recently constructed the soldiers themselves are making artificial limbs such as have heretofore come largely from the United States. Dr. Maurice Bourillon, director of the institution, says the majority of cripples are unable to pay the prices for imported artificial limbs, so they are learning how to compete with the American trade.

The trade schools are in successful operation, and arrangements are being made to take care of the increased number of arrivals as the war continues. At present there is great need of men who can repair the American farm machinery, tractors and so forth used in France, and a number of them are being trained for this work.

In the designing-room a number of men, who have lost their right arms, are training themselves with the aid of various American drawing devices to use their left hand. After these men have been sufficiently trained, the government will find positions where such men have mastered a new calling may earn a decent living. All those who have fought for the country will be well cared for, according to Monsieur Jules Brisac, in charge of this work; none will become a charge. They can choose whatever work they wish. Private societies that are interested in aiding the maimed will be subsidized, but the government will exercise control generally.

Dr. Bourillon, apart from his general professional work, improves the opportunity to do some moral training. He is an enemy of strong drink, and in the large, comfortable reading-room at the asylum are placards conspicuously posted such as: "Abstain! Will Make You Crazy"; "Alcohol is the Perfect Type of Poison of the Nervous System"; "When Man Drinks the Family is Compromised—When Woman Drinks the Family is Lost"; "Eau-de-Vie; Eau-de-mort." (Brandy is death.) Experience has shown that the maimed at Saint-Maurice learn in less than half the time the trades or professions they choose as compared with others who have the normal use of their limbs. Dr. Bourillon attributes this to their strong will-power aroused by the obstacles met in their changed condition. "The great number of maimed who are in such condition as to earn their living only with difficulty, if at all, raises a social problem of the greatest importance," said Dr. Bourillon. "Evidently they should be given all places they are able to fill in the government or organizations of which the state has control. But it is doubtful if work can be found for all something for them as soon as they can begin work."

Will Make You Crazy"; "Alcohol is the Perfect Type of Poison of the Nervous System"; "When Man Drinks the Family is Compromised—When Woman Drinks the Family is Lost"; "Eau-de-Vie; Eau-de-mort." (Brandy is death.) Experience has shown that the maimed at Saint-Maurice learn in less than half the time the trades or professions they choose as compared with others who have the normal use of their limbs. Dr. Bourillon attributes

this to their strong will-power aroused by the obstacles met in their changed condition. "The great number of maimed who are in such condition as to earn their living only with difficulty, if at all, raises a social problem of the greatest importance," said Dr. Bourillon. "Evidently they should be given all places they are able to fill in the government or organizations of which the state has control. But it is doubtful if work can be found for all something for them as soon as they can begin work."
